

Money from this railroad activity provided the foundation for another of the permanent businesses in the county—that of Mark Jeffs. Richard Jeffs, Mark's father, was a Mormon convert from England who came to Utah in 1862, bringing Mark with him. Their first home in Heber was a small log cabin owned by Elizabeth Carlyle and situated on her pasture lot.<sup>1</sup> It was in this cabin that Mark first began trading. His year's work on the railroad in 1868-69 enabled him to save seventy dollars, which he soon took to Salt Lake City and invested in goods such as calico, factory, sugar, and tea. Once home in Heber he set up his store in the little log cabin. The scales for weighing out sugar and tea were set in the window. Calico and factory were measured out on the <sup>1</sup>Statement by Emma Wherrett, personal interview, 1952.

Joseph Hatch

Joseph R. Murdock

Joseph Hatch

Ref. "Under Wasatch
Skies" p 107

JOSEPH AND JANE CLYDE HATCH

Joseph Hatch was born July 26, 1854, in Lehi, son of Abram and Permilia Jane Lott Hatch. He married Jane Clyde, daughter of George W. and Jane Clyde, on August 16, 1875, in the Endowment House in Salt Lake City. She died October 28, 1908, and he married Madie Hyde Sears in May, 1910. He died in May of 1933.

BEAUTIFUL UPON THE MOUNTAINS

Joseph Hatch was one of Heber City's leading businessmen for more than 50 years. He was only a boy of 13 when he came with his father from Lehi to make a new home in Provo Valley. He drove the family livestock from Lehi to Heber, a three-day task. He finished his early education in Heber and then attended the old Morgan Business College in Salt Lake City, where he graduated in business. Returning to Heber, he helped his mother in their store, and through his efforts built up the business, A. Hatch & Co., to one of Heber's leading businesses. When his father died, in 1912, the business was reorganized and Joseph opened a coal yard and warehouse and worked in the wholesale business. He was also interested in mining, farming, stock raising, irrigation and politics. He always encouraged young people to seek an education. Fond of small children, he always had candy, a penny or something for all the children he met. Jane Clyde Hatch came to Heber in 1860 with her mother and family from Springville. She was an excellent seamstress and cook, and had a lovely singing voice. She was known as a splendid homemaker and always kept her home in order and her children neat and clean. She did much charity work and helped others in time of trouble. A good manager, she found the time necessary to do the things she desired to do. After her death, in 1908, Joseph Hatch married Madie Hyde Sears, a widow of some years. She moved to Heber and made her home in the valley until Mr. Hatch's death, in 1933. After that she lived with her two daughters, Hazel and Sally, in Los Angeles, but made frequent visits to Heber, where she was well known and respected. She died April 25, 1940.

Children of Joseph and Jane Clyde Hatch:

HEBER BIOGRAPHIES

Joseph Hatch, Jr.
Emma Hatch (married William Russel Wherritt).
Abram Hatch.
May Hatch (married Orson Hyde).
George Hatch.
Roy Hatch.
Floyd F. Hatch.
Glen S. Hatch.

HEBER—Joseph Hatch, 79, prominent business man of Heber, was killed when the automobile in which he was riding overturned near Keetley, ten miles north of here, Monday at 1 p. m.

Mr. Hatch was returning from Park City with William J. Cummings Jr., who was driving the car. It was reported by Walter O. Toole, George McMillan and Ebenezer Brown, who were working in a field at the side of the road, that the two right wheels of the machine went off the west side of the road for about 100 feet. The car then turned suddenly to the east side of the road and back to the west side, going off the highway and turning completely over.

Joseph Hatch

Both men were thrown clear of the machine. Mr. Hatch was still breathing when the witnesses arrived at the scene, but he died of a facial skull fracture before his son-in-law, Dr. W. B. Wherrett, arrived. Mr. Cummings escaped with minor injuries.

Thrown Clear

Both men were thrown clear of the machine. Mr. Hatch was still breathing when the witnesses arrived at the scene, but he died of a facial skull fracture before his son-in-law, Dr. W. B. Wherrett, arrived. Mr. Cummings escaped with minor injuries.

Thrown Clear

Both men were thrown clear of the machine. Mr. Hatch was still breathing when the witnesses arrived at the scene, but he died of a facial skull fracture before his son-in-law, Dr. W. B. Wherrett, arrived. Mr. Cummings escaped with minor injuries.

Sheriff Virgil Raughton, who investigated the accident, stated the car was reported traveling at a moderate rate of speed, although it was descending a slight grade.

Mr. Hatch was born in Lehi, July 26, 1854, the oldest son of Abram Hatch, former president of the Wasatch D. S. stake, and Mrs. Jane Lott Hatch. He moved to Heber with his parents in 1871. Later he founded the L. D. S. business in Salt Lake, after which he assisted his mother in operating the A. Hatch & Co. store here. He was later made manager of the store.

Bank Director

Mr. Hatch was a director of the Bank of Heber City and president of the Timpanogos irrigation project during its construction. During his early life he herded large herds of cattle and horses in the White river and Green river country with his brothers. He was the first to ship a carload of cattle of this valley to the Omaha stock yards.

He married Jane Clyde on August 16, 1873. To them eight sons and daughters were born, seven of whom are living. After her death, he married Mable Spears, May 24, 1909.

Surviving sons and daughters are Joseph C. Hatch, Mountainview, Wyo.; Abram and Dr. Floyd Hatch, Salt Lake; Roy Hatch, Garfield; Glen Hatch, Los Angeles; George Hatch and Mrs. Emma Wherrett, Heber; 23 grandchildren, 19 great-grandchildren, two sisters, Mrs. Jane Hatch, Heber, and Mrs. Lucy Thompson, Provo, and two stepdaughters, Mrs. Hazel Trout, Salt Lake, and Mrs. Sally Jones, Long Beach, Cal.

HOW BEAUTIFUL UPON THE MOUNTAINS p390

Joseph Hatch was one of Heber City's leading businessmen for more than 50 years. He was only a boy of 13 when he came with his father from Lehi to make a new home in Provo Valley. He drove the family livestock from Lehi to Heber, a three-day task. He finished his early education in Heber and then attended the old Morgan Business College in Salt Lake City, where he graduated in business. Returning to Heber, he helped his mother in their store, and through his efforts built up the business, A. Hatch & Co., to one of Heber's leading businesses. When his father died, in 1912, the business was reorganized and Joseph opened a coal yard and warehouse and worked in the wholesale business. He was also interested in mining, farming, stock raising, irrigation and politics. He always encouraged young people to seek an education. Fond of small children, he always had candy, a penny or something for all the children he met. Jane Clyde Hatch came to Heber in 1860 with her mother and family from Springville. She was an excellent seamstress and cook, and had a lovely singing voice. She was known as a splendid homemaker and always kept her home in order and her children neat and clean. She did much charity work and helped others in time of trouble. A good manager, she found the time necessary to do the things she desired to do. After her death, in 1908, Joseph Hatch married Mable Hyde Sears, a widow of some years. She moved to Heber and made her home in the valley until Mr. Hatch's death, in 1933. After that she lived with her two daughters, Hazel and Sally, in Los Angeles, but made frequent visits to Heber, where she was well known and respected. She died April 25, 1940.

Children of Joseph and Jane Clyde Hatch:

JOSEPH AND JANE CLYDE HATCH

Joseph Hatch was born July 26, 1854, in Lehi, son of Abram and Permelia Jane Lott Hatch. He married Jane Clyde, daughter of George W. and Jane Clyde, on August 16, 1875, in the Endowment House in Salt Lake City. She died October 28, 1908, and he married Mable Hyde Sears in May, 1910. He died in May of 1933.

Joseph Hatch

Joseph Hatch

Joseph Hatch

Money from this railroad activity provided the foundation for another of the permanent businesses in the county—that of Mark Jeffs. Richard Jeffs, Mark's father, was a Mormon convert from England who came to Utah in 1862, bringing Mark with him. Their first home in Heber was a small log cabin owned by Elizabeth Car-lyle and situated on her pasture lot.<sup>6</sup> It was in this cabin that Mark first began trading. His year's work on the railroad in 1868-69 enabled him to save seventy dollars, which he soon took to Salt Lake City and invested in goods such as calico, factory, sugar, and tea. Once home in Heber he set up his store in the little log cabin. The scales for weighing out sugar and tea were set in the window. Calico and factory were measured out on the <sup>6</sup>Statement by Emma Wherritt, personal interview, 1952.

Joseph Hatch

"Under Wasatch Skies"
p 107

JOSEPH AND JANE CLYDE HATCH

Joseph Hatch was born July 26, 1854, in Lehi, son of Abram and Permilia Jane Lott Hatch. He married Jane Clyde, daughter of George W. and Jane Clyde, on August 16, 1875, in the Endowment House in Salt Lake City. She died October 28, 1908, and he married Madie Hyde Sears in May, 1910. He died in May of 1933.

Joseph Hatch

V BEAUTIFUL UPON THE MOUNTAINS

Joseph Hatch was one of Heber City's leading businessmen for more than 50 years. He was only a boy of 13 when he came with his father from Lehi to make a new home in Provo Valley. He drove the family livestock from Lehi to Heber, a three-day task. He finished his early education in Heber and then attended the old Morgan Business College in Salt Lake City, where he graduated in business. Returning to Heber, he helped his mother in their store, and through his efforts built up the business, A. Hatch & Co., to one of Heber's leading businesses. When his father died, in 1912, the business was reorganized and Joseph opened a coal yard and warehouse and worked in the wholesale business. He was also interested in mining, farming, stock raising, irrigation and politics. He always encouraged young people to seek an education. Fond of small children, he always had candy, a penny or something for all the children he met. Jane Clyde Hatch came to Heber in 1860 with her mother and family from Springville. She was an excellent seamstress and cook, and had a lovely singing voice. She was known as a splendid homemaker and always kept her home in order and her children neat and clean. She did much charity work and helped others in time of trouble. A good manager, she found the time necessary to do the things she desired to do. After her death, in 1908, Joseph Hatch married Madie Hyde Sears, a widow of some years. She moved to Heber and made her home in the valley until Mr. Hatch's death, in 1933. After that she lived with her two daughters, Hazel and Sally, in Los Angeles, but made frequent visits to Heber, where she was well known and respected. She died April 25, 1940.

Children of Joseph and Jane Clyde Hatch:

HEBER BIOGRAPHIES

Joseph Hatch, Jr.
Emma Hatch (married William Russell Wherritt).
Abram Hatch.
May Hatch (married Orson Hyde).
George Hatch.
Roy Hatch.
Floyd F. Hatch. 391
Glen S. Hatch. —